Dear Reader,

I just got back from a trip to the Moi tribe in Indonesia. On the way the helicopter zoomed past forest-covered hilltops. In my mind's eye I saw a giant billboard announcing "You are now at the end of the world." We flew past it and beyond... deep into Moi territory. After 40 hours of travel I arrived at my destination—a Moi village on a lonely hilltop.

It was just a couple of years ago that the first Moi believers were born, and they're eager to delve more into God's Word. One man even has the genealogy from Adam to Christ memorized.

Their discussions are far from shallow. They're realizing that God is in control, and if they went back to their old ways, they would be trying to control the Creator. They agreed that, "We can't even control our kids. What are we thinking when we try to control God?"

The Moises are also turning Old Testament stories into songs. I made some recordings while visiting; these will be part of the online portion of this issue of NTM@work at ntm.org/magazine

It is amazing to see the eyes of these people. People who were once walking in darkness now have their eyes lit up with the joy of the Lord. You will see it too, in the beginning of next year, when our video on God's work among the Moises comes out.

Together, we are bringing the light of God's message to the tribal peoples who inhabit the remote places of the earth.

You are the light of the world. A city that is set on a hill cannot be hidden. Nor do they light a lamp and put it under a basket, but on a lampstand, and it gives light to all who are in the house. Matthew 5:14-15
